DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claim 12 is objected to because of the following informalities: obvious grammatical errors appear on both lines 1 and 2. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1, 3, 4, 7, 10, 11, 13, 14, 17 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being clearly anticipated by Darvish et al. (Pat. No. 6,292,693).

Note in particular col. 6, lines 21-31.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claims 2 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Darvish et al. in view of Salo et al. (Pat. No. 4,686,987).

Darvish et al. do not discuss sensing intra-thoracic impedance to derive a parameter related to cardiac output, but do teach that any type of sensor or measurement known in the art can be used to accomplish this function (col. 9, lines 44-47). Salo et al. discloses an intra-thoracic impedance sensor for measuring cardiac output in a related pacer device. Those of ordinary skill in the art looking for a means to measure cardiac output as taught by Darvish et al. would have therefore seen the obviousness of utilizing any known method/apparatus for obtaining this parameter including that disclosed by Salo et al..

7. Claims 8 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Darvish et al..

While Darvish et al. disclose the use of bipolar electrodes disposed near a heart chamber and switching the pulse output configuration by using alternating pulse polarity (col. 8, lines 35-59), they do not discuss the use of a ring and a tip electrode. The examiner takes Official Notice that it is well-known in the cardiac pacer industry to manufacture bipolar leads by placing a tip electrode at the distal end, paired with a proximally located ring electrode for bipolar stimulation.

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claims 5, 6, 9, 15, 16 and 19 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
